

BLACK, BROWN, WHITE

Herstory Inside Out Prison Project

Building Bridges to Build Community

This two-hour weekly bridge-building workshop was founded in partnership with the Unitarian Universalist Fellowship of Huntington and the Huntington branch of the NAACP, bringing together women across those racial and cultural divides that so often keep us from hearing one another. It serves as a welcoming site for women from the “Herstory Inside Out” project who started to write with us in jail and is being offered free of charge from October 2011-January 2012 through a special grant from the Chase and Stephanie Coleman Foundation.

Taught by Herstory facilitator Lonnie Mathis, the workshop meets Tuesdays, 7:00 p.m.– 9:00 p.m., at the Huntington Station Enrichment Center, 1264 New York Ave. To register contact our office at 631-676-7395 or email to Herstory Black, Brown and White Herstory Inside Out Prison Project [bbwiopp@gmail.com]

Additional short term workshops in the community are available on a contracted basis through libraries, civic organizations and activist groups looking to bring our work to their constituencies. If you are interested in bringing a Herstory workshop to your membership, please email us at contactus@herstorywriters.org

For information about our youth programs, our work with alternative schools, colleges and universities, our bilingual community-response workshops, and our work in the justice arena, as well as our publications and DVD about our method, please visit our website. We are happy to bring readers to book clubs using our materials in their library-based or community sites.